Positive Point System Rules!

ASHA's Scoring System Encourages Horse and Rider to be Best They Can Be

By Becca Salamone and B.F. Yeates

Wouldn't you enjoy being encouraged every time you show your stock horse? That's exactly what happens at American Stock Horse Association events. Verbal encouragement? Perhaps, but what you will encounter is a positive scoring system that seeks to uplift and improve performance – to encourage you to be the best horse/rider combination you can be.

This innovative, positive scoring system is designed with full knowledge of other scoring systems used by various horse breed and discipline associations. It is purposefully crafted to positively encourage participants and to support them in their growth. The scoring of individual maneuvers in each of the four classes is intended to encourage specific improvement of both horse and rider through education and evaluative feedback.

The posted score sheets allow riders to compare their own scores between shows and also with other exhibitors to note areas needing improvement.

ASHA's mission is to provide education to create better horsemen and horses, and its constitution requires that affordable, accessible educational clinics be held with each of its shows. Combined with the scoring feedback, these clinics allow for ongoing performance improvement.

By design, it is very hard to be disqualified and receive no score at an ASHA show. Most shows announce rankings of 1-6, 1-10, etc. And, if a rider is disqualified, they receive no score and very little or no feedback on their performance. In ASHA, every horse and rider in a class is placed and receives points based on their placing. Since points are awarded to every horse in the class, even the last place horse and rider gets a pointed evaluation on a posted score sheet and receives one point. Points accumulated by a one horse/one rider combination can lead to a Superior or Supreme Stock Horse Merit Award.

This overall positive scoring and awards system provides encouragement to beginning riders and to riders whose horses are just learning maneuvers. It also provides leveling of the playing field for less experienced riders.

ASHA exhibitors tend to encourage each other in their quest for excellence. In many cases, exhibitors feel they are competing against themselves as they work to get better. This is fun, and makes the ASHA organization a very enjoyable experience in which to ride, train, and show a horse with pride.

To learn more, go to the ASHA website and attend upcoming events to become part of ASHA's encouraging, educational program to create better horses and horsemen.

ABOUT THE AMERICAN STOCK HORSE ASSOCIATION

The American Stock Horse Association was chartered as a non-profit organization in 2008. The Association is dedicated to enhancing the pleasure of owning and riding horses through creating better horses and horsemen. The mission of the Association is simple: help people ride a better horse.

American Stock Horse Association Affiliates

Region 1

Oklahoma Stock Horse Association

The Oklahoma Stock Horse Association was started by a group of people interested in promoting the American Stock Horse Association's philosophy and mission of creating better horses and better horsemen. The OkSHA was established as a non-profit Oklahoma organization in August of 2009. They applied and were accepted as an affiliate of the American Stock Horse Association shortly thereafter.

Region 2

Alabama Stock Horse Association

The purpose of the Alabama Stock Horse Association is to provide opportunities for horsemen and horsewomen to learn to train and show a horse that is broke, relatively safe and versatile enough to do whatever a person wants to do with it. We want to help riders "get er done" with their horses whether they are rich or poor, old or young, expert or amateur. We will find a way to include a person in our program and help them ride a better horse no matter what their skill level or level of income may be. ALSHA was formed in 2009.

Tennessee Stock Horse Association

The Tennessee Stock Horse Association (TnSHA) strives to help our members ride better horses by creating better horseman and strengthening the relationship between horseman and their horses. The Tennessee Stock Horse Association was formed in 2012.

Region 5

CoWN Stock Horse Association

The CoWN Stock Horse Association promotes functions throughout Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska. Venues include shows, clinics and premiere events such as the 2012 ASHA National Championship Futurity and Derby held during the Region 5 Championship Finals Show November 29-December 2, 2012 at the National Western Event Center Facility in Denver, CO. CoWN was formed in 2010.

Region 6

Western States Stock Horse

Western States Stock Horse (WSSH) was chartered as a Non-Profit Organization in 2011 and represents Region 6 of the American Stock Horse Association. Region 6 consists of nine states: Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, and Washington. The mission of WSSH is to assist its members to improve horse and horsemanship skills through education and competition in a safe and enjoyable environment, while also preserving the traditions of the American Stock Horse.

FOUNDING SPONSOR

Dedicated to Raising Quality Livestock

Champion Ranch is located on 6,000 beautiful acres in Centerville, TX. It is a family owned ranch with four generations of the Wallrath's living there. The ranch is known for producing the highest quality of commercial cattle for buyers. They pride themselves in having highly maintained pasture land for the cattle as well as having the best facilities. In the last two years, the ranch has been developing a 30-acre peach orchard with plans to increase to 100 acres.

They are a purebred Brangus Cow-Calf operation. With a cow herd of over 1000 head, they understand the stresses of today's market and know the importance of producing an efficient and cost effective product for their customers. Many of their feeder calves are tracked all the way through the feedlot, giving the information needed to stay on top of the beef market.

Our goal, with horses, is to produce a horse that has the genetics, confirmation, disposition (trainability), athletic ability, and soundness to be either a successful show horse or a great ranch horse. For more information..please call Luke Cearley, Cattle and Horse Manager, 979.412.2027.

MEET DIRECTOR . . .

Robert Wells, Ph.D., PAS

Dr. Wells works as a Livestock Consultant for the Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation in Ardmore, Oklahoma. He joined the consultation program in 2005. Wells earned a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in beef cattle management and ruminant nutrition in 2004, a M.S. with a focus on ruminant nutrition from Texas Tech University and a B.S. degree from Stephen F. Austin State University.

Robert Wells

Prior to working for the Noble Foundation, Wells was the Assistant General Manager and Operations Manager for the Rio Grande Valley Livestock Show and Rodeo, Inc., a major livestock show in Texas. While working for the livestock show, Wells oversaw the construction of a 134,000 sq. ft. multipurpose event facility, and the building of a 200 stall horse barn to complement the indoor rodeo arena. He also helped coordinate several hundred volunteers annually for livestock shows. Additionally, Wells was instrumental in elevating the four nights of rodeo performances to PRCA events.

Before his two year stint at the Rio Grande Valley Livestock Show and Rodeo, he was the Beef Cattle Research Coordinator at the University of Illinois for more than seven years. His responsibilities included coordinating and assisting with activities such as processing newly arrived cattle, collecting ultrasound carcass data and artificial insemination work at the three beef research stations. Additionally, Wells oversaw the management of a nutrition laboratory on campus. He also was the university Rodeo Team advisor and coach and had members actively compete on the NIRA Ozark circuit. While serving as the coach, the team hosted one of the fastest growing IPRA rodeos in the region.

Wells is a member of numerous industry organizations, including the American Stock Horse Association, Oklahoma Stock Horse Association, American Quarter Horse Association, Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association, and National Cattlemen's Association. He is also involved in several scientific organizations including American Society of Animal Sciences, Association of Professional Animal Scientists, and the Equine Science Society.

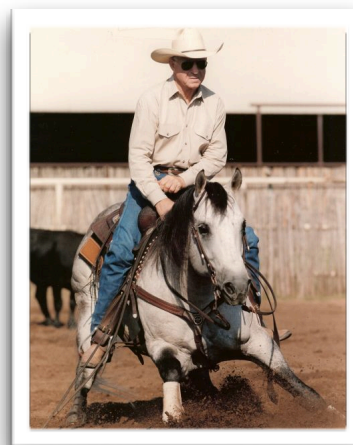

Wells was born and grew up in South Texas, where he was heavily involved in 4-H and FFA and raised and showed beef cattle and horses from an early age. Wells lives on a small operation in southern Oklahoma and spends his time with his family and watching his daughter compete in ASHA, OkSHA, and AQHA horse shows.

MEET DIRECTOR . . .

Dick Pieper

Dick Pieper is a Past President of the National Reining Horse Association, NRHA Futurity Champion and member of the NRHA Hall of Fame. He is an American Quarter Horse Association Professional Horseman, has won multiple World Championships and has held judges' cards in the NRHA, AQHA, National Cutting Horse Association (NCHA), and the National Reined Cow Horse Association (NRCHA). He has judged some of the most elite shows in the performance horse industry, including the All-American Quarter Horse Congress, AQHA World Show, AQHA Youth World Show, and the NRCHA Snaffle Bit Futurity. He also currently sits on the Board of Directors for both the Ranch Horse Association of America and the American Stock Horse Association.

Dick Pieper

Pieper and his wife, Brenda, oversee their Pieper Ranch in Marietta, Oklahoma. Their ranch is home to famous stallions Playgun and Texas Kicker. Playgun, whose lineage reads like the "Who's Who" of AQHA breeding, has offspring earnings of more than $8 million. Texas Kicker, a son of Colonel Freckles, is an AQHA Reining World Champion.

Dick's success in the performance industry is legendary, but his true gift is his ability to communicate with both people and horses. He is a master horseman and one of the most respected alive today. After his extensive career in the performance world, Dick now shares his wisdom and training techniques in a series of training videos and clinics known as The Language of Horsemanship. REGION 6 - REGIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP REPORT

By Stacy Jo Hartley
Harrisburg, OR

It was an amazing Labor Day weekend in Albany, Oregon, for the 2013 ASHA Region 6 Stock Horse Versatility Championship - Sponsored by Wilco Farm Stores and hosted by Western States Stock Horse.

Sixty-three people participated in the Clinic portion of the Event on Friday and Saturday AM. Each Clinician worked diligently with each participant covering each of the four classes.

Thank you to the Clinicians: Jennifer Stephens, Carri Maganzini, Kevin Semmel, Robert Hartley, and Mitch and Jolinn Hoover for all of their dedication and support.

Friday evening after the clinic concluded, Judge JoAnne Oswald conducted an educational seminar answering participant questions, reviewing ASHA Rules, warm up arena etiquette and covering common mistakes that she sees in the show pen.

On Saturday when the Cattle Clinic ended and it was time to start the Show portion of the event, the USA Flag was presented by the OSU Collegiate Team and Team Member Briana Lee sang the National Anthem. It was then that the Short Stirrup Pleasure Class started off with Hope Rose Hartley (6 years old) and Macy Hubka (6 years old). It was a delight to see the future of ASHA riding in Stock Horse Pleasure and Trail. On Saturday August 31, the Pleasure Class was judged by JoAnne Oswald, while the Trail Class was judged by Heather Loveall.

Saturday Evening the Youth participated in fun activities such as egg on a spoon and other games. During the festivities, thanks to Robertson Ranch and Fran Robertson for donating the product, a Twinkle contest was judged. Each Youth took time to decorate their horses with Twinkle and whoever received the most votes won a basket of Twinkle products, 2nd received a $25 Wilco gift card, and 3rd received a Fly Mask.

The Youth finished the day with Trail and it was late and DARK! Each rider showed poise and patience as it was a very long day for each of them.

Sunday proceeded with the Reining Class and then Working Cowhorse. WSSH Chairman, Robert Hartley, assisted with the cows and had a chance to watch the Cowhorse Class. "Truly amazing to watch the riders that have participated throughout the year and see their improvement," Hartley stated.

As the weekend came to a close the awards were presented to all the smiling faces. Each Division Champion received their outstanding Gist buckle and Wooden Plaque, while Reserve each earned laser engraved wooden stirrups.

Including the Short Stirrup Class participants, the Show had a total of 95 horse rider combinations.

Show Sponsor Wilco Farm Stores also donated an award bucket including Professional Choice Bell Boots, Horse Guard, and Cowboy Magic Products. This was presented to special participants honored in each Division, as the 2013 Wilco Horseman of the Year.

The WSSH Board of Directors chose each of the Horseman based on their kindness, assistance, and professionalism throughout the year. Each of these award winners showed acts of kindness and true grit patience when things do not always go as planned with your horse during a show.

Western States Stock Horse is so very excited for the Stock Horse Versatility show concept to reach the West Coast. Numbers have doubled from 2012 and the excitement for 2014 is booming. With new members and participants traveling from the State of Washington and California, WSSH plans to conduct clinics and then shows throughout the other states included in Region 6.

WSSH will start off their 2014 show season with a bang. The Spring Classic will be held April 3rd - 6th in Albany, OR. World Renowned Horseman, Dick Pieper will be traveling from Oklahoma to conduct a Judges Seminar on April 3rd, and then be the acting Clinician and Judge for the Event April 4 - 6th.

FOR THE LOVE OF A PONY!

Naomi and Bear

First Show

I wanted to let you know how much we enjoy the ASHA. We are new to the horse world. Myself and my three youngest daughters ride. We've been blessed with some neat horses. Naomi, our 8 year old, is the only one who has shown so far. Her horse's name is Bear. He's an old (close to 20 years) pony. She loves him and he's taken great care of her. She's saving all her allowance for her next pony. But in the meantime, ol' Bear will have to keep going until he's retired for the grandchildren.

She had a wonderful time showing. It was her first show and she came in last but wasn't daunted at all. We love the scoring system as it encourages working for personal best and lets her have a worthy goal of bettering her scores without having to be in the top three.

Thank you,

Carol Pendleton

SPECIAL RECOGNITION FOR ASHA MEMBERS

Cindy Newell and Forrest

I found Forrest in February 2011 with the help of trainer Kelly Hall of Kelly Hall Performance Horses. He was trained by Shane Brown and won money in the National Reining Horse Association. Forrest was 13 years old when I bought him. He was born with his coffin bone in 3 pieces in both front feet.

Forrest's breeding is Doc N Jose (Smokin Jose x Doc N Peppy) x Jacs Savage Princess (Hollywood Jac 86 x Queen Savage). Forrest was bred by Dave Belson in Cave Creek, AZ. His AQHA name is Savage Man Jose and his NRHA name is Forrest Gump.

Send news and photos of your activities and accomplishments to:
Becca Salamone
alabamahorsetalk@gmail.com

When I bought Forrest, I was looking for a horse that could help me learn reining. With the help of Kelly Hall and her brother, Rusty Hall, of H & H Performance Horses, I learned reining and Forrest and I learned cow horse boxing, trail, pleasure and showmanship. Even though Forrest has an attitude, he is very willing to learn new things.

In 2012, Forrest and I won the ASHA and CoWN Novice All-Around, the ASHA National Novice High Point Award, qualified for the American Quarter Horse Association Novice Championship in Las Vegas and the AQHA World Show in Oklahoma City.

Forrest's long life of showing has taken its toll, and he will retire this year in November.
